Celebrating 20 Years of the LHVA LHS Annual Dinner Recognizes Milestone Anniversary

The Lackawanna Historical Society is proud to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Lackawanna Heritage Valley State and National Heritage Area during its 2011 annual dinner on September 14th. Established in 1991, the Lackawanna Heritage Valley Authority is the managing entity for the Lackawanna Heritage Valley.

The Lackawanna Heritage Valley was designated as a National Heritage Area by Congress and includes the Lackawanna River watershed in parts of Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna, and Wayne counties.

Preserving the rich history of the Lackawanna Valley has become a central tenant of the LHVA. As a result, the LHVA tells the story of immigrants who came here to build a new life and ended up building a new nation through the development of mining, textiles, steel manufacturing, printing, trolleys, and railroad building.

The Lackawanna Heritage Valley Authority is focused on renewal of the environment, of the economic base, and of pride and a sense of place. As part of its mission, the LHVA supports various environmental organizations, students, educators, municipal governments, residents, visitors, and historic and cultural sites - including the Lackawanna Historical Society.

The Society participates in the LHVA's monthly roundtable, which provides various groups the opportunity to network and collaborate on activities and projects. Additionally, the Society receives financial support for many preservation and interpretive projects and programs from the LHVA.

To mark this milestone, the Society is pleased to welcome Monsignor Joseph G. Quinn, Vice President for University Mission and Ministry at Fordham University, New York City. Monsignor Quinn, the founding chairman of LHVA and former pastor at Scranton's St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Rose of Lima Church in Carbondale, as our special guest for this year's Annual Dinner. At the dinner, he will introduce the world premiere of a WVIA documentary "Legacy: The Story of the Lackawanna Heritage Valley."

Don't Miss "Brunch in the City" Downtown Walking Tours!

On Saturday, September 24th, the Society will offer a 10:00 am guided walking tour of downtown Scranton starting at Lackawanna College which will conclude with a brunch at the Colonnade at 11:30 am.

A Word from the President...

Hello everyone,

One of the reasons I enjoy living in Northeastern Pennsylvania, aside from its interesting and diverse history of course, is the change of seasons we see unfold each year. Love it or hate it, the changing of the seasons is an ongoing, beautiful, motivating and sometimes challenging part of life here. At the present time we are beginning to see that fact occur again as summer ends and fall begins. Putting it in terms related to the Lackawanna Historical Society, we all enjoyed a successful Historic House Tour in the Hill, several First Friday walking tours of the downtown and celebrated at the annual Volunteer Thank You Party during the summer. Now that we are approaching the fall season, we look forward to our Annual Dinner, new versions of the downtown walking tour with brunch and later paranormal activity investigations as the leaves start to fall.

As you read through this issue of the LHS newsletter, all of these activities and much more are discussed. Summarily, these events would not take place as well as they do without our many dedicated volunteers and staff. They make it happen and I truly believe that! Consequently, I would be remiss if I did not mention one in particular, Bob Booth. Bob passed away in July and had been for many years a devoted volunteer, research assistant and financial supporter of the Lackawanna Historical Society. While he was with us we benefited greatly in many ways. I can only hope he felt the same way in return.

Enjoy the change of seasons. Best regards,

Michael Gilmartin

In the Catlin House...

In Memoriam

On July 7, the Lackawanna Historical Society lost a dear friend and a dedicated volunteer when Robert E. Booth passed away. Bob was a wonderful volunteer who spent hours at the Catlin House every day assisting with research, preparing "Then and Now" pieces for The Scranton Times, guiding tours, or simply sharing his knowledge. His love of the Society and interest in local history was obvious not only in his work as a volunteer but in all of his activities. He attended every program offered by the LHS as well as participating in many other community events. If anyone had a question about a local history topic, Bob would be happy to share what he knew and did not mind digging a little deeper into local library collections to find the answer if he did not know it!

In 2006, the Society named Bob its Volunteer of the Year, but he could have been named Volunteer of the Decade simply from the fact that he alone dedicated more than 900 hours of volunteer service to the LHS every year since 2005. Many members have expressed their sympathy to us on his loss and commented on how it will be hard to replace him. The fact is, he cannot be replaced and we will miss him not only for the work he accomplished, but because he was such a dear friend to all of the LHS staff and to his fellow volunteers. But we are comforted in the fact that he has left his mark on the Society in the volumes of research work he completed and friendships he made. Cheers to Bob!

Dear Bob,

*If you really must go,
We'll suffer the loss
so you can find peace and relinquish your cross.*

*The memories you've left us
will have to suffice:
We'll never forget
how you've paid the price*

*You'll live on in memory
for all you have done,
so rest now in peace
in the glory you've won.*

About Your Town

Scranton Draft Riots

By Dennis Martin

The Lackawanna Historical Society receives a lot of interesting questions and in researching them we discover some very fascinating aspects of local history. One recent question was about three members of the 21st Pennsylvania Cavalry who died near Scranton just after the Battle of Gettysburg. Remembering that the New York City Draft Riots were put down by Federal soldiers fresh from the battle of the Gettysburg (New York, Michigan and Indiana units) and knowing that Scranton also had Draft Riots, we thought we had the framework for starting but discovered an even more exciting story.

The first Pennsylvania draft was in October 1862, well before the Gettysburg battle. On October 23, 1862 Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin sent Secretary of War Edward M. Stanton the following message:

Notwithstanding the usual exaggerations, I think the organization to resist the draft in Schuylkill, Luzerne, and Carbon Counties is very formidable. There are several thousands in arms, and the people who will not join have been driven from the county. They will not permit the drafted men, who are willing, to leave, and yesterday forced them to get out of the cars. I wish to crush the resistance so effectually that the like will not occur again. One thousand regulars would be most efficient, and I suggest that one [regiment?] be ordered from the army. General A. Porter, who is here, and fully informed, agrees with me, and advises the employment of such a force.

Troops were dispatched and the problem was solved for the time. Scranton was part of Luzerne County and was one of the places with problems. We believe it can be assumed that troops were kept ready to return if more problems occurred, possibly even stationed nearby.

After the Battle of Chancellorsville, Lee started north to Pennsylvania in early June of 1863. The 21st Cavalry (182nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers) was organized after President Lincoln's call of June 15 for cavalry for six months service. Many of the officers and men were veterans. Six of the companies were sent to Pottsville and Scranton for duty. In January 1864 many of the men rejoined the reorganized regiment for three years service. Company D was assigned to Scranton for a year while the rest of the Regiment went on to Cold Harbor, Petersburg, and other battles.

With this information, we then looked into History of Pennsylvania Volunteers, 1861-5; prepared in compliance with acts of the legislature, by Samuel P. Bates, Volume 5, pp. 77-127. The following deaths in the regiment are recorded:

- ♦ John Beesecker died near Scranton, Sep. 26, 1863, Co. L
- ♦ John Ausherman died near Scranton, Oct. 9, 1863, Co. L
- ♦ Aaron B. Meckley died at Scranton, Nov. 4, 1863, Co. C

In addition, Bates also notes that

- ♦ Henry Lane accidentally killed near Scranton, Sep 20, 1863, Co. L
- ♦ Jeff M'Clintock accidentally killed near Scranton, Dec 25, 1863, Co. M

Send the Society a piece about your town or neighborhood, and we'll be happy to include it in a future issue as we relate and preserve the vital history of Lackawanna County.

Gift to LHS Brings a Surprise and a Story

By Ella S. Rayburn

All of us have read about a lucky garage sale find or a lab X-raying a mundane painting and discovering lost artwork by a famous Renaissance painter. None of that quite happened at the Lackawanna Historical Society a few weeks back, but it was an interesting week anyway.

Robert Bowen, Jr., living in Clarks Summit, donated an oil pastel image of his grandparents. Mr. Bowen believes the painting of George and Mary Baraga Kincel is their wedding portrait from about 1903. The image was nicely framed but the backing board was acidic. The common museum treatment is to remove the brittle, acid laden spacer board and replace it with an acid free board. We removed the back board and found, to our astonishment, on the front of this board was an oil painting. We contacted Mr. Bowen who had no knowledge of the second painting. He arrived with faded photographs of his great grandparents with five of their children. Although the great grandparents are at opposite ends of the photograph, the newly discovered oil painting is an exact replica of their poses except they are seated side-by-side.

Oil pastel of Mary and George Kincel painted soon after their wedding, about 1903. It appears to be a photograph over-painted with the pastels.

Mr. Bowen had conducted some genealogical research to accompany the first portrait and after the recent discovery has a renewed desire to find out more about his ancestors. He reports that a young George Kincel arrived from Germany with his family about 1893, lived in Minnesota, and then returned to Germany after the death of his father. George and his brother, escaping ill treatment by a stepfather, returned to Minnesota in 1897.

Mary Baraga came from Austria-Hungary with her parents and six siblings. She met George while he was serving as best man at a wedding in Scranton and, as evidenced by the pastel portrait, they were married about 1903 and settled in Taylor. He worked as a miner and saved enough money to bring over the rest of his family including the stepfather.

George and Mary became naturalized citizens and raised 11 children in a home at the corner of Oak and Fourth in Taylor. "Felts Patch" attracted immigrants from Eastern Europe, which produced neighbors with an easy familiarity with several languages. The Kincels moved to 1129 1/2 Rundle Street, Scranton in time for the birth of the 12th and final child, Emilie. Eight of the twelve survived. George placed great importance on education. All the children graduated from Scranton Technical High School. George suffered a stroke and died in 1939; Mary died of a stroke in 1945.

The surprise painting was of Mary's parents, Anton and Franceska Baraga, who died in 1923. Mr. Bowen said Anton was a baron in his native land but found work as a coal miner. Franceska was a doctor whose credentials were not recognized. She served as a midwife. They resided in "Felts Patch" in Taylor. Both sets of Mr. Bowen's great grandparents, and George and Mary Kencil, and the four children who died young are buried in St. John's Cemetery, Taylor.
